- And many, many more.

WASC Reaffirmation of Accreditation

- We were reaccredited fully – 10 Years
- We received nine commendations and four recommendations.*

Honors College

The Weber Honors College welcomed 900 newly-admitted honors students and their parents.

National Scholarships & Fellowships:

- In 2016 we had our first Truman Finalist
- 9 student Fulbright grantees in 2016-17

Gates Millennium Scholars

Class of 2016

Seven students graduated in 2016 (two undergraduates and five graduate students).

LIBRARY AND INFORMATION ACCESS

Map-IT Studio: Thanks in part to a PLF grant, this fall, the Library will open a geographical information systems studio in the Computing Hub.

- Student Computing Hub Success: In the newly renovated space, 54% of student-users received tutoring
- Build IT @ SDSU Library moved to a larger space in the Computing Hub. 69 students from 14 majors became 'Master Builders' and fulfilled over 2,000 3-D print requests from across campus. The makerspace fosters interdisciplinary collaboration for student-motivated DIY learning about technology and free 3D printing to any student.

Library Renovations and Partnerships

- Digital Humanities Lab: A new Library learning center will open during 2016-2017 and create a “humanities lab,” where students and faculty can use advanced technologies to analyze and explore Arts, Literature, and Social Science research.
- Library Textbooks on Reserve: Beginning last year, instead of purchasing a required book, many students in high-enrollment lower division GE classes checked out textbooks for a 2-hour period. Huge demand for this new resource accounted for nearly 20% of reserve circulation transactions.

Page Pavilion

The Page Pavilion, the multi-million dollar renovation project of the first and third floors of the Student Services East building, officially opened in October, 2015.

The new 3M Sales Lab and observation room, designed to provide students with the opportunity to practice and improve their presentation skills using video technology and live feedback.

Community Engagement & High Impact Practices

Compact Scholars Program

Fall 2016 brings the largest cohort admitted to enroll in the 11-year history of the program with approximately 600 students expected.

Sage Project

Hosted the 5th Annual Sustainable City Year Conference in March 2016, featuring representatives from the Environmental Protection Agency, and cities and universities around the country and even internationally.

International Programs

Eight Honors College students and 3 Liberal Studies majors participated in a month-long exchange program with SDSU faculty and staff support through the Education for Sustainability Finland Summer 2016.

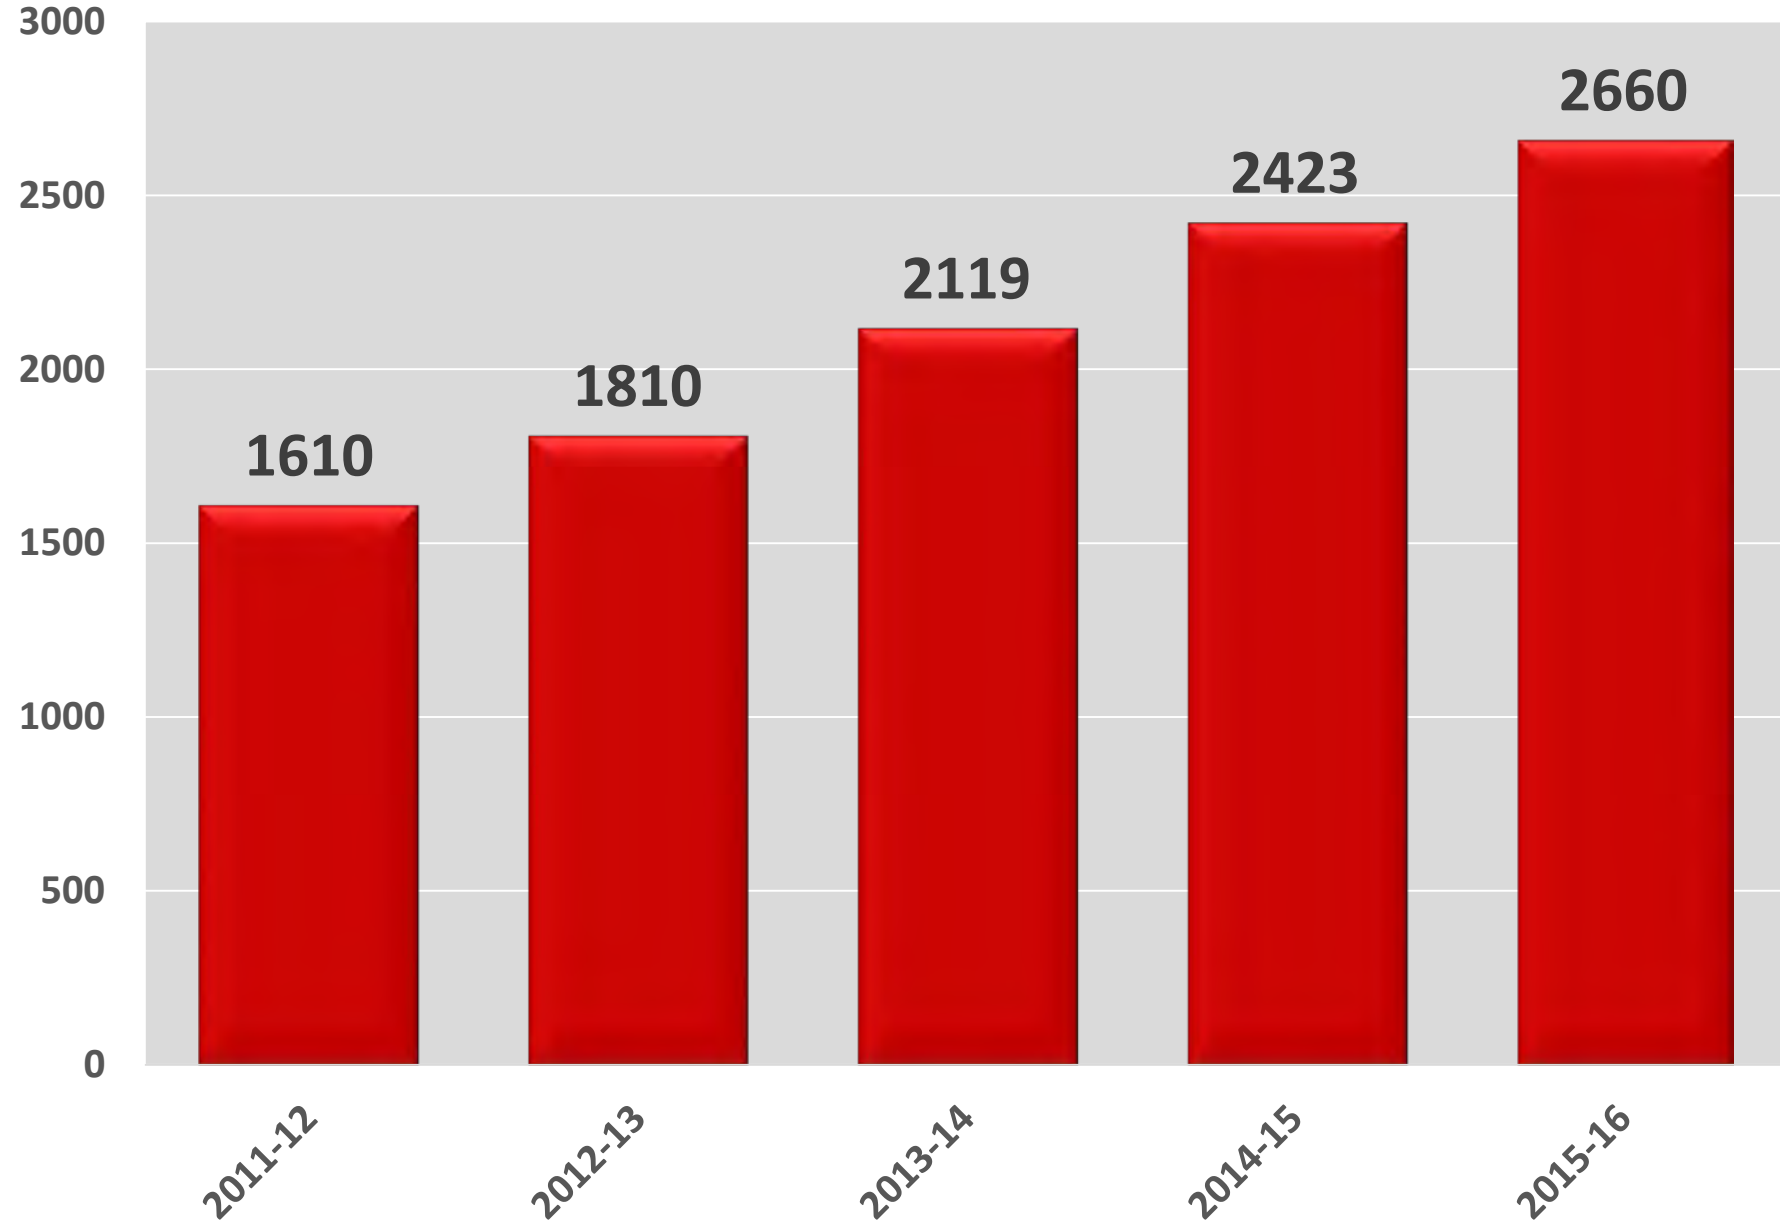

SAN DIEGO STATE

Herrera receives Gaspar Perez de Villagra Award

BY YARELI RIVERA
2016-2017 Associated Students Council president

Carlos Herrera was named the winner of the Gaspar Perez de Villagra Award by the Historical Society of New Mexico for his book, "Juan Bautista De Anza: The King's Governor in New Mexico," published by the University of Oklahoma Press.

This award is given annually by HSNM for an outstanding publication by an individual or individuals in New Mexico or Southwest borderlands history.

This book, as one reviewer explained, "is long-overdue. Anza was one of the most significant of New Mexico's Spanish colonial governors and a comprehensive study of his life is of considerable value to New Mexico historians" — and beyond.

Herrera, with his family, received this recognition on April 16 in the city of Farmington,

New Mexico.

"Juan Bautista De Anza: The King's Governor in New Mexico" was also granted a finalist recognition by the Western Writers of America under the category Best Western Biography.

The Western Writers of America is one of the most important organizations that promotes and acknowledges significant publications in the field of Western history and literature.

Receiving a finalist Spur award from the WWA is considered a very prestigious accomplishment. Finally, Herrera's book also received a finalist award granted by the New Mexico Book Co-op.

This organization sponsors the New Mexico-Arizona Book Awards, which are granted to authors considered to have published the best literature on the history and culture relevant to the Southwest.

IMPERIAL VALLEY CAMPUS

Research leads young Aztecs to Chiapas, Mexico

Two students from the Imperial Valley campus, Dianna Hurtado and Gabriel Sanchez, are spending July 10-July 31 in the Highland region of Chiapas, Mexico.

The students are joining Dr. Linda Abarbanell, an assistant professor in the Psychology Department at San Diego State University-Imperial Valley, in her research in the Mayan community of Tenejapa, a rural, subsistence agriculture community where people still speak their native language, Tselal and follow many of their traditional beliefs and practices.

The students, both seniors majoring in psychology, have been helping to run experiments that look at how Tselal speakers talk about locations and directions and how this affects how they remember spatial information.

In Tselal, speakers use words that are fixed to their environment, like "uphill" and "downhill" rather than body-based words like "left" and "right." So where an English-speaker would say "Pass me the fork to the right of the plate," a Tselal-speaker would say communities in the region. In the nearby Tsotsil Mayan community of San Juan Chamula, they observed traditional healing ceremonies in the church involving candles, refrescos, incense and prayers led by a healer who passes a live chicken that is then sacrificed or eggs over a person to remove any impurities.

In Tenejapa, they participated in Valley campuses at SDSU and at professional conferences such as the annual meeting of the Western Psychological Association in Sacramento in the spring.

For the students, who plan to write senior theses on their work, this has been an enriching and eye-opening experience. Dianna Hurtado said that she feels fortunate to have had the opportunity

SAN DIEGO STATE UNIVERSITY STUDIES ABROAD

Valencia, Spain

A group of 24 San Diego State University students, including 19 from SDSU-Imperial Valley campus, will be spending June 21-July 19 in Spain as part of a study-abroad program that will immerse the students in Spanish culture and literature.

The students will spend a couple of days each in Madrid, Barcelona and Toledo.

The sites they will visit include the world-famous Prado art museum in Madrid, Park Guell and Sagrada Familia cathedral in Barcelona, and Synagogue de Transito in Toledo, among many other sites.

The students will spend the rest of their Spain stay in the coastal city of Valencia, known for its educational institutions, its shipping industry, its mix of historic and modern architecture, its beaches and its paella.

The SDSU students will be housed in a dormitory in Valencia with students from Spain and throughout the world.

The study-abroad class will be taught by Bret Kofford (in middle of photo), a full-time lecturer in rhetoric and writing studies and English at SDSU-IV.

Kofford taught the same course in Valencia two summers ago and has taught summer study-abroad courses in Italy and Argentina.

All of the study-abroad classes he has led have largely been made up of students from SDSU-Imperial Valley.

Students involved with the program have staged many fundraisers for the trip and are also funding the trip through scholarships and part-time jobs.

Students passing the course will get three units of credit and many will fulfill study-abroad requirements included in their majors.

Granada, Spain

From May 29-June 25, 20 students in Granada, Spain are taking a "women in literature" course about women in Spain from San Diego State University-Imperial Valley campus English professor Jeanette Shumaker (farthest to the right in photo).

Three of the 20 students are enrolled at SDSU-IV, and two other students from the SD campus are graduates of Imperial Valley high schools.

Living in homestays with Spanish families, these students are observing bilingual classes in grades 1-12 in Granada, since most of them plan to become elementary school teachers.

They will visit Córdoba, Sevilla and the Alpujarras. Within Granada, students will visit the Alhambra, the cathedral, the Capilla Real, the ancient Moorish neighborhood of the Albaicin, and the neighborhood of gypsy cave homes, the Sacromonte, as well as attend a flamenco dance lesson.

COLLEGE OF PROFESSIONAL STUDIES AND FINE ARTS

- Students pursuing international study increased by 22% to 343, including nearly 25% of graduating seniors;
- More than 700 PSFA students participated in for-credit internship experience.
- More than 250 music students, in collaboration with the San Diego Symphony, presented “Downtown” at Copley Symphony Hall to a sold out audience of more than 2,200. The concert raised nearly $40,000 for student scholarships.

SAN DIEGO STATE
UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF PROFESSIONAL STUDIES AND FINE ARTS

Projects for the Public Good, linking curriculum and real world experience, received funding from the Parker Foundation to support:

Multi-disciplinary restorative justice team of residents, faculty, and SDSU students in the Sweetwater Union HS District;

- After school violin instruction to youth in National City;
- Interactive music performances focused on literacy to under-served children; and
- Concerts and classes to at-risk organizations that serve youth, the mentally ill, and those rehabilitating from drug and alcohol use.

A few important recent research accomplishments by faculty and students in the college include:

- Psychology Prof. Jean Twenge is widely recognized for her research on how human behavior changes between generations – her recent research has practical applications in a wide variety of disciplines, and has generated tremendous media interest.
- Chemistry Prof. Greg Holland was named a Kavli Fellow by the U.S. National Academy of Sciences. His research is focused on biomimicry – how we can learn from nature to improve human-made products.

SAN DIEGO STATE

COLLEGE OF SCIENCES

- The SDSU Visualization (Viz) Center, led by Geology Prof. Eric Frost, uses imaging and computational approaches to identify and respond to natural and human-made disasters, such as earthquakes, floods, hurricanes, epidemics, terrorism, and criminal activities. With students and faculty in the Homeland Security Program, the Viz Center has played an important role in response to recent California wildfires.
- Dr. Kim Finley in the Donald P. Shiley BioScience Center (BSC) developed an approach to use fruit flies to understand and treat human brain injuries - an example of innovative, interdisciplinary research opportunities that are catalyzed by buildings like the BSC and the new EIS Building.

SAN DIEGO STATE

COLLEGE OF EXTENDED STUDIES

- The ALI was selected to be one of two West Coast universities to offer the Fulbright Pre-Academic program through a three-year grant. The first cohort of 35 students spent three weeks at the ALI in July/August 2015, preparing for graduate studies at universities throughout the U.S.
- CES Implemented the following new certificate or degree programs:
  - Online Certificates: Construction Project Management; Lean Six Sigma; Professional Certificate in Cultural Competence, Online Advanced Certificate in Intellectual Property (Regulatory Science, College of Sciences) in collaboration with USD, collaborative program with Academy of Public Safety, State of Baja, California within their Forensic Science Masters Program.
