Re: Action Items

1. APP unanimously approved, and moves to approve at the senate level, the proposal to establish a University Honors College:

APP recognizes the benefits of a University Honors College (UHC) and its alignment with SDSU's institutional mission and current strategic plan. APP appreciates how the proposed UHC structure promotes diverse and inclusive participation across the university for first-time, newly transferred, and current students. We encourage the nascent program to promote faculty awareness of, and engagement in, the proposed activities and associated revised minor.

2. APP unanimously approved, and moves to approve at the senate level, the proposal to merge the Department of Learning Design and Technology and the Department of Journalism and Media Studies:

Proposed merger is internally driven by both departments and supported by the administration of both colleges. When framed within the rapidly-evolving intersection of information and media, the merger is forward-looking and will promote synergistic interactions among faculty and students. That said, APP encourages the involved parties to continue their thoughtful and collegial collaborations as they integrate their departments and revise/refine their respective curricular programs.

3. APP unanimously approved, and moves to approve at the senate level, the proposal to change the name of the Department of Policy Studies in Language and Cross-Cultural Education to the Department of Dual Language and English Learner Education:

Proposed name change is more reflective of the mission and goals of the department and more consistent with analogous higher-educaiton programs across the country as well as the K-12 communities they commonly serve.

From:	Eniko Csomay, Chair of Constitution and Bylaws Committee
Action:	Adopt proposed changes to the Policy File concerning membership for the Tenure Track Planning Committee

Action:

Senate Chair, Bill Eadie, asked the Constitution and Bylaws Committee to review the proposal from the Chair of Diversity, Equity and Outreach, Nola Butler-Byrd. The Constitution and Bylaws Committee has vetted the proposal and had gone through multiple iterations, and feel that the proposal below is reasonable and argued well. Hence, we put this proposal forward for adoption.

Current Policy File Language:

Tenure-Track Planning Committee

- 1.0 Membership (5): Provost, Chair of the Senate, Chair of Academic Policy and Planning, Chair of Academic Resources and Planning, Chair of Faculty Affairs.
- 2.0 Function: The Committee shall annually consider programming initiatives and recommend to the Provost the allocation of new and vacated tenure-track faculty positions.

Suggested Changes (underlined):

Tenure-Track Planning Committee

1.0 Membership (5 6): Provost, Chair of the Senate, Chair of Academic Policy and Planning, Chair of Academic Resources and Planning, Chair of Faculty Affairs, Chair of Diversity, Equity and Outreach.

2.0 Function: The Committee shall annually consider programming initiatives and recommend to the Provost the allocation of new and vacated tenure-track faculty positions.

Rationale:

This committee (T/T Planning) was established in 1999 and had been dormant until it was revived by Provost Marlin in 2011 in the context of severe budget cuts that limited tenure-track hiring to a handful each year. Adding the Chair of the Diversity, Equity and Outreach committee to the Tenure-Track Planning committee will

- ensure that diversity expertise is represented in the decision-making process;
- enhance the application of the principles of shared governance;
- ensure that the advice given to the Provost reflects priorities of SDSU's President and Strategic Plan in terms of inclusive excellence and increased recruitment of underrepresented faculty members;
- make evident a strong and visible sign of the University's commitment to having the faculty reflect the composition of the student body more closely – a crucial characteristic for a Hispanic Serving Institution with such a diverse student population as ours.

TO:SenateFROM:Faculty Affairs CommitteeRE:Action

The Faculty Affairs Committee recommends the following changes to the Policy File:

In Titles and Appointments, p. 96:

Under 5.0 Distinguished Professor:

Insert "5.1" before "Recipients of the Albert W. Johnson University Research Lecture shall be named as a Distinguished Professor in their discipline."

Add "5.2 Recipients of the Senate Distinguished Teaching Award shall be named as a Distinguished Professor in their discipline."

Rationale:

-- Without this change, the Senate Distinguished Professor title cannot be put into the catalog because the section of the Policy File on titles wasn't modified to include Senate Distinguished Professor as a title that could be awarded.

Sense of the Senate Resolution Regarding Statement on the Principles of Scholarly Research and Public Records Requests

Resolved: That it is the sense of the SDSU Senate to endorse the "Statement on the Principles of Scholarly Research and Public Records" (below) adapted from a Resolution of September 2012 of the UCLA joint Senate-Administration Task ⁷orce on Academic Freedom (https://www.apo.ucla.edu/resources/academic-freedom), and be it

Resolved: That this resolution be distributed to the

- Academic Senate, The California State University,
- CSU campus senates, and
- California Faculty Association.

Statement on the Principles of Scholarly Research and Public Records

'reamble

Robust, frequent, and frank intellectual exchange is essential to research and teaching at the university level. It is herefore a matter of great concern that faculty at public universities throughout the country are increasingly the objects of requests through state (California Public Records Act, or PRA) and federal (Freedom of Information Act, or FOIA) ublic records acts for emails, notes, drafts, and other documents. Public access laws are an important component of the lemocratic process in our society, and scholars themselves frequently benefit from this legal framework. However, 'aculty scholarly communications (including faculty supervised student research communications) must be protected 'rom PRA and FOIA requests to guard the principle of academic freedom, the integrity of the research process and peer eview, and the broader teaching and research mission of the university. Moreover, these requests have increasingly been used for political purposes or to intimidate faculty working on controversial issues. These onerous, politically notivated, or frivolous requests may inhibit the very communications that nourish excellence in research and teaching, hreatening the long-established principles of scholarly research.

The Principles of Scholarly Research

⁷aculty at SDSU carry out a triple mission of teaching, service, and research/creative activity. The three parts of this nission are not identical: our service to the institution is by definition something that concerns the shared governance, peration, and decision-making here at SDSU and CSU wide. By contrast, our research and teaching are often conducted in collaboration with others in our discipline at institutions around the world, and serve the general idvancement of knowledge.

Sound, high-quality scholarship is a collective process of trial and error, peer review, and questioning that happens in classrooms, laboratories, offices, conferences, workshops, at work and at home, day and night, in the university and in he field. Through this collective process, scholarship is scrutinized, questioned, improved, and ultimately accepted or ejected by the community. There are a number of principles that underlie this process and are accepted across the lisciplines, including the following:

Frank exchange among scholars is essential to advancing knowledge. Scholars frequently test ideas in extreme 'orm, explore possibilities through hypotheticals, or play "devil's advocate," making claims they may not themselves believe in edgy, casual language not intended for public circulation or publication. These communications are frequent ind diverse in nature because scholarship is a competitive and fast-paced process, requiring intensive communication imong a diverse array of participants.

SEN March 4, 2014 — 10 — Freedom of Expression

Peer review is built into the academic enterprise at every level. Review and contestation is a nearly constant 'eature of the exploration of scholarly problems, and that review comes from peers at every stage, from the initial dentification of a problem to the publication of scholarly work on the problem. Publications are the final tangible esult of scholarly exploration. A published work articulates in detail the methods, materials, and modes of research hat led to the findings reported or the narrative constructed. Publications are written with the expectation that they vill contribute new knowledge to a field and spur deeper examination of the problems addressed within them. In essence, peer review never ends.

Faculty often choose research topics that are highly relevant to society and therefore may generate strong eactions. These topics may be controversial and highly politicized (e.g., global warming), deal with illegal or criminal behavior, or focus directly on contentious social questions (e.g., ethnicity, sexual orientation). Faculty must be free to vork on these important topics without fear of retribution, threats, or interference.

Faculty members regularly collaborate with colleagues at other institutions. Faculty within the CSU system equire, and deserve to have, the same freedom of communication with people at other universities and corporations, public and private. Faculty at private universities who perform equivalent research need not fear interference through tate public records act requests pertaining to their scholarly contributions; neither should faculty at public universities uch as SDSU.

Teaching and research are conducted and governed by the generally accepted professional and ethical commitments specific to each academic discipline. University policies generally incorporate, rather than supersede, hose requirements and expectations. Thus, university faculty members already are held to very high professional and ethical standards in the conduct of their scholarly work.

The Potential Harms of Public Records Requests for Scholarly Records

³rank, honest exchange depends on the maximum protection of the informal and everyday work, personal email, drafts, ind records related to research and teaching. It is essential that regular and frequent communications among faculty vithin SDSU and with colleagues in other institutions remain within faculty control. Public records requests can lead to innecessary and unwarranted increased time commitments necessary to monitor all that is written or said in case of votential public disclosure. A lack of protection from such requests can directly impinge on academic freedom (the 'chilling effect") by causing faculty to avoid investigating controversial issues.

Principles Endorsed to Protect Scholarly Communications

Clarity concerning what is considered a public record by the university is essential to the success of faculty research ind teaching endeavors. The university must do its utmost to protect those records not subject to public records oversight and to prevent the chilling effect of public records requests on frank scholarly exchange. These principles are consistent with the letter and intent of the open records laws:

Protect the system of peer review at all levels.

Public records requests are neither a substitute for nor an effective check on peer review by the scholarly community, but instead damage the process by threatening scholars into silence when they should be speaking ruthfully and frankly about their concerns. The published record is the gold standard on which scholarship rests and it s readily available to the public. Public records requests of private, draft, or pre-publication materials only serve to confound the peer review process, rather than leading to an improvement or check on this process.

Protect the right of faculty to choose topics and research areas based on intrinsic criteria. Research that is volitically or socially controversial should be subject to the same protections as any other kind of research. If the scholarly process is to function correctly, it must be protected from political, social, religious or other non-academic riteria of evaluation.

Provide the same protections to SDSU faculty that colleagues in private universities or corporations enjoy. Scholarship is inherently collaborative and extends beyond the bounds of a single lab or office or university. Hence, 'aculty at SDSU should be afforded the same kinds of protection offered elsewhere, including at private universities. Maximum protection of SDSU faculty also is necessary to ensure that our colleagues at other institutions do not experience "second-order" chilling effects, i.e., a fear of collaborating with SDSU faculty due to concern about votential public disclosure of private materials.

Reiterate the value of the longstanding traditions of ethical and professional codes of conduct. Disciplines possess necessary and effective standards that govern the ethics of research. It is this time-tested oversight that ensures accountability. Public records requests should not be allowed to undermine these traditions.

Conclusion

The academic enterprise is intrinsically different from other enterprises conducted for the benefit of the public. Its product, knowledge, is intangible, yet it informs all of society in countless tangible ways, including technology, nedical care, ecology, and art. Academia can only make these tremendous contributions to the quality of our lives if t operates according to the standards that have ensured its freedom from bias and its unwavering devotion to truth, whatever that truth may be. The threat to faculty of forced disclosure of scholarly communication through PRA/FOIA equests can damage intellectual freedom and interfere with robust scholarly communication. The proper forum for valuating and vetting academic research is through the time-honored and rigorous process of peer review. The world's icademic community, including its faculties and administrative leaders, must protect itself from these requests if it is to continue to function and contribute to society in the highly valuable manner that is has for centuries.

Re:	Information Items

1 Review and Approval of New Concentration within the MS Degree in Child Development [13-38]

The committee evaluated the proposal to add a new clinical concentration in Early Childhood Mental Health to the Master of Science Degree in Child Development program. The request to approve the new clinical was approved unanimously.

2 Review and Approval of a proposed merge of the School of Journalism and Media Studies and the Department of Learning Design and Technology

The committee evaluated the proposed merger of JMS and LDT into a single department within PSFA. The merger was vetted through a rigorous process and culminated in nearly unanimous approval in votes by faculty in both departments. There does not appear to be any negative fiscal impacts of this merger. The request to approve the merger was approved unanimously.

3 Discussion of requests for one-time funds for Feb 13 PBAC meeting

The committee discussed the requests for one-time funds from Academic Affairs, Business and Financial Affairs, University Relations and Development, Enhanced Campus Climate and Culture, and Destination SDSU. The input from the committee will be communicated at PBAC.

4 Discussion of Proposed University Honors College

Dr. Chase (Dean, Undergraduate Studies) and Dr. Sinclair (Director, University Honors Program) described the major elements of the UHC proposal and answered questions. The committee discussed the proposal and raised several points.

- An expanded Honors College has the potential to attract excellent students and enrich and expand the entire university community.
- The Honors College should strive to be inclusive.
- The Honors College has outlined an ambitious expansion program and it will be important to focus on recruitment and retention of students to meet this goal.

- The committee expressed the opinion that funding for the Honors College should not detract from other academic programs. In addition, departments and programs should not be unduly burdened by faculty who choose to teach in the proposed Honors courses.
- The committee noted that funding for the expanded UHC is already earmarked in the strategic plan.
- The committee expressed concern that the current UHC proposal does not address if or how students at the IVC campus could participate.

Members of the committee debated the relative pros and cons of the proposal. The majority (but not all) of members felt that timely approval of the current proposal was warranted. The proposal was approved by majority (8 yeas, 1 nay, 2 abstentions).

5. Discussion of Senate Officers Referral

ARP discussed the Senate officers' referral. The committee continues on its twopronged approach. (1) Analyzing data/information from Faculty Affairs and Academic Affairs (i.e. centralized), (2) collecting information from colleges by discussing budgeting with representatives within each college (i.e. decentralized).

ARP will be drafting a report over the next few weeks. The report will be forwardlooking in nature and discuss best practices that promote transparency and excellent communication during the budget process. We will recommend best practices that should be relevant horizontally (i.e. across colleges/units at the same level) as well as vertically (i.e. from colleges to departments to faculty/staff). CFA Report:

Bargaining

The CFA Bargaining Team met with CSU negotiators on February 13 and 14. Both sides exchanged proposals at this session. The CFA Team continued to focus on workload concerns for all faculty members -- tenured and tenure-track, lecturers, librarians, counselors and coaches. The CFA Bargaining Team offered extensive, detailed proposals to address the increased demands on all faculty members in the areas of teaching, research, and service.

CSU negotiators agreed that the CSU system is serving more students with fewer faculty members and acknowledged CFA's concern about faculty members being asked to "volunteer" to perform work without pay.

Based on members' feedback in the bargaining survey CFA conducted last October, the CFA Bargaining Team will continue to press critical workload issues during future negotiations.

The next bargaining session will be held March 13 and 14.

Recent outreach to legislators in support of CSU budget

Thank you to the hundreds of faculty members on our campus who responded to our call, over this past month, for messages to our legislators in support of CSU funding. Throughout the CSU system, faculty members generated literally thousands of messages to legislators. (This outreach is important, of course, since budget can have a bearing on CSU employee compensation.) We will be asking for your help and outreach again, later this spring, at key junctures in the legislative budget process.

CFA Contact Information

Please feel free to contact our campus California Faculty Association office at any time if we can provide assistance, whether on a contract rights issue or other matter. Our campus CFA chapter has a Faculty Rights Committee, composed of faculty volunteers, and we are available to talk with faculty colleagues about individual situations and assist in resolving issues. We can be reached at cfa@mail.sdsu.edu or x42775.
